La désidérata

by Marie Hélène Poitras

Under the blinding skies of Noirax, a long tradition of secrets lies dormant. The men of the Malmaison insist on this silence, feed their broods, and collect a string of ill-fated women known as the desideratas. Father is content since all's calm on his estate. After a failed romance, his son, Jeanty, is back home and exploring a new identity. Soon, Aliénor arrives to seek answers and rock the boat. The curtain rises. La Désidérata pays tribute to stifled voices in graceful, lyrical prose punctuated by dark nursery rhymes. A luminous tale of rebirth, restoration, and revenge.

Les ombres blanches

by Dominique Fortier

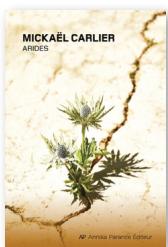

It's 1886 and Emily Dickinson has died. Hundreds of scraps of paper wait eagerly to take flight. Emily has left our world, but a poetess is about to be born. With finesse and compassion, Les ombres blanches chronicles a body of work that was nearly lost; the loves, sorrows, and devotion of those who brought it to light; and the passing of a reclusive woman known as "the Myth." After the magnificent Paper Houses, which delved into Dickinson's life and works, Dominique Fortier delivers a tender, profound, and poetic tale about grief, legacy, and the mesmerizing power of words.

Arides

de Mickaël Carlier

Dan, la mi-cinquantaine, ignore tout de ses propres origines et ne peut réconcilier le passé et le présent. À force d'insistance, il parvient à ouvrir une brèche dans le mutisme de son père, lequel lui dévoile le lieu de sa naissance. Il part aussitôt à la recherche de ce monde où il espère éclaircir la grande énigme de sa vie. Son intrusion dans ces contrées désertiques, où survivent quelques habitants taciturnes, avivera des tensions aux racines profondes. Mais de tels secrets séculaires peuvent-ils se révéler autrement que dans la violence ?

Au nord de ma mémoire

de Mattia Scarpulla

Des migrants de première génération, qui portent les stigmates de l'exil sur leurs corps, se réunissent à Montréal pour jouer de la musique. Des usagers qui se cachent dans les rayons d'une bibliothèque après la fermeture. Ils et elles veulent continuer à rêver et à vivre grâce aux livres. Dans la plupart des poésies et des poèmes en prose du livre, les personnages perdent des membres ou modifient leur apparence physique. Parce fil conducteur d'actions, l'auteur souhaite figurer explicitement la fabrication de nos identités.

Dumb-Show

by Fawn Parker

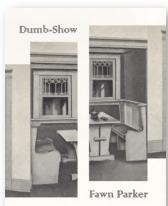

"This is literature made from flesh, messy and bloody and exacting and haunting"

Twenty-something siblings Heather and Geoffrey have become entangled in separate power struggles with a controversial professor, Dr. Barry Martin. His divisive views on masculinity have put him in the public spotlight in a way that has created both public disgust and a private lust for proximity.

"Vivid and vicious. Dumb-Show holds nothing back in its hilarious attack on modern academia." — Adnan Khan, author of There Has to Be a Knife.

Set-Point

by Fawn Parker

Set-Point is humorously dry, insightful, and an understated portrait of a complex personal landscape.

Lucy is a 20-something old aspiring screenwriter who takes up digital sex-work to pay the bills. Lucy struggles with her self-image, an eating disorder, and the illness of her mother. Haunted by self-doubt and a desire to believe in her work and worth, Lucy volleys between self-sabotage and ambition as she tries to develop a parodic script set within a massive multiplayer world-building game. She is thrown into amplified chaos when one of her sex-work clients threatens to dox her.

A Dream of a Woman

by Casey Plett

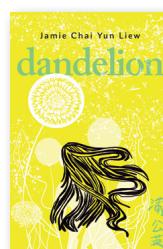

Longlisted for the Scotiabank Giller Prize

Award-winning novelist Casey Plett (Little Fish) returns with a poignant suite of stories that feature transgender women.

Casey Plett's novel Little Fish won a Lambda Literary Award and the Amazon First Novel Award. In her latest work, a story collection that features transgender women seeking stable, adult lives, Plett finds quiet truths in prairie high-rises and New York warehouses, in freezing Canadian winters and drizzly Oregon days. A Dream of a Woman is an ethereal meditation on partnership, sex, addiction, romance, groundedness, and love.

Dandelion

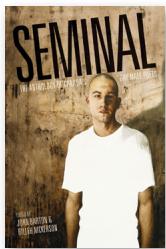

by Jamie Chai Yun Liew

In this beautiful debut novel, an Asian woman traces her mother's past journey in order to learn who she really is and where she belongs.

When Lily was eleven years old, her mother, Swee Hua, walked away from the family, never to be seen or heard from again. Now a new mother herself, Lily becomes obsessed with finding out what happened to Swee Hua. Winner of the Jim Wong-Chu Emerging Writers Award from the Asian Canadian Writers' Workshop, Dandelion is a beautifully affecting novel about motherhood, family secrets, migration, isolation, and mental illness.

The Anthology of Canada's Gay Male Poets
by John Barton and Billee Nickerson

A groundbreaking, comprehensive anthology of Canadian gay male poetry, the first of its kind, that reveals a national queer poetic that is equal parts eloquent, subversive, and moving. The material, from the 1890s to present-day, includes work by fifty-seven poets from every region of the country, including some from Québec who have been translated into English for the first time. For many, the queer experience is central to their aesthetic, offering works of startling beauty and originality, some of which speak to our national identity while others transcend it.

Bystander

by Mike Steeves

When Peter Simons returns home after being away for nine months and notices a strange smell coming from his neighbour's apartment, he tries not to get involved, but when a body is discovered, his carefully cultivated detachment begins to crumble. Bystander is a pitiless, bold work of intense psychological realism narrated by a professionally successful but socially bankrupt anti-hero who expects global connection and local anonymity. It excoriates the contingency of contemporary morality, and, at a time of growing isolation, examines what it means to be a good neighbour.

The Animals

by Cary Fagan

In a quaint village, Dorn makes miniature models displayed in local shops. Yet, life is far from idyllic; he suffers under the thumb of a rich, philandering brother and an unloving father. Nor can he find the courage to admit his love for the ungainly school teacher who was once the village's only Olympics hope. Life takes a strange turn when the government-sponsored "Wild Home Project" begins in the village. Dorn's neighbour now lives with a wolf. Others are in company with minks, otters, and bears. Soon, Dorn takes on the unlikely role of hero in the hope of changing the course of his life.

We, Jane

by Aimee Wall

Finalist for the Amazon First Novel Award
Longlisted for the Giller Prize

Marthe begins a friendship with an older woman, also from Newfoundland. They return to a small community on the island to continue the work of an underground movement in 60s Chicago: abortion services performed by women, always referred to as Jane. Marthe commits to continuing this legacy and protecting such essential knowledge. But the nobility of her task and the reality of small-town life compete, and personal fractures within their group begin to grow.

Beneath the Willows

by Marie Hess

The Wright family was sharecropping in Alcott, New York. After years of plowing fields and hanging tobacco, they had an opportunity to own a small farm in southern Ontario. Beth, their only daughter, has just turned twelve. The neighbours warn the family not to go into the woods behind their property. They say anyone who enters the sacred land never returns, not even animals. One day, Beth steps into the forest. She begins to see dark figures moving behind the trees and encounters the spirits of two elderly women. A fast-paced novel written by Indigenous author, Marie Hess.

Des papillons dans le ventre

de Marilou Addison

Super contente de voir que vous avez été plusieurs à réagir à ma demande et à m'envoyer des questions. Il y a une raison bien particulière pour laquelle j'ai eu envie de faire cette FAQ. C'est que – je dois vous avouer quelque chose. Premièrement, ce n'est pas la première chaîne YouTube que je démarre. Mais j'ai dû fermer l'autre parce que j'ai subi beaucoup d'intimidation à mon ancienne école. Je sais que je ne suis pas la seule à en vivre, et c'est pour éviter que ça vous arrive que j'en parle aujourd'hui. Je crois que l'important, c'est de jamais baisser les bras. Et de pas avoir honte.

Le baiser de la mort

d'Ericka Duflo, illustré par Audrey Petit

Evy mène une vie routinière jusqu'au jour où elle remarque un étrange individu au long manteau noir à l'arrêt d'autobus. À partir de ce moment, elle ne cesse d'apercevoir le jeune homme partout où elle se trouve. Se peut-il qu'il la suive ? Serait-elle en danger ? La jeune femme est de plus en plus inquiète, mais son quotidien bascule lorsqu'elle réalise qu'elle est la seule à voir l'inconnu. Comment est-ce possible ? Même si rien ne laisse présager qu'un lien unique va réunir deux univers jusque-là distincts, Evy découvrira que la mort et l'amour ne font qu'un.

Les Enfants de chien de Nicolas Delisle-L'Heureux

Quand Louise Fowley débarque à l'improviste dans les lieux qui l'ont vue grandir, c'est tout un passé qui ressurgit, l'époque où elle formait un trio inséparable avec Marco, le fils du despote local, et Laurence, le frère du redoutable Willy. Chacun a suivi sa propre trajectoire, sans jamais échapper à la force gravitationnelle de la tragédie, de la blessure jamais refermée. Un roman sur le passage à l'âge adulte de trois adolescents marqués par une tragédie commune. Une histoire tissée de multiples points de vue qui nous tient en haleine jusqu'à la fin.

Noces de coton d'Edem Awumey

Avec ce huis clos au rythme haletant, où les mots et les gestes vibrent de colère et d'espoir, Edem Awumey nous entraîne dans un périple contemporain sur la route du coton, de l'Afrique des savanes au sud étasunien, des salons luxueux de Berlin aux champs du Rajasthan indien arrosés au glyphosate, des vallées de l'Ouzbékistan recouvertes par la fibre blanche aux filatures de Dacca au Bangladesh. C'est le roman de la traversée de mondes en lutte contre le diktat de multinationales. C'est un cri de liberté trop longtemps retenu qui éclate enfin avec une violence tonitruante.

Haute démolition

de Jean-Philippe Baril Guérard

Je connais bien les gars comme toi. Ils étaient pas populaires, au secondaire. Un jour, sur une patinoire d'impro, ils ont découvert qu'ils pouvaient déterminer quand et comment faire rire d'eux, et que ça leur permettrait de survivre. Maintenant qu'ils sont adultes, on les voit partout dans les médias. Ils doivent monter sur scène cinq fois semaine pour sentir qu'ils valent quelque chose. Ils calculent leur valeur comme humains au nombre de clics qu'ils génèrent. Et quand quelqu'un, quelque part, détourne son regard d'eux, ils s'en remettent pas. Ils détruisent tout sur leur passage.

Nauetakuan un silence pour un bruit

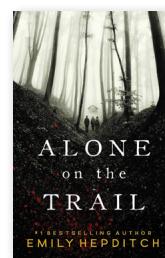

by Natasha Kanapé-Fontaine

Monica is searching for her freedom, as well as her roots. She has just dropped out of a degree in art history when she has an epiphany at a vernissage. Monica feels a deep connection to the work of the First Nations artist: something about the wound she carries is expressed on these canvases, in these installations.

A quest for identity steeped in the poetry of its author who uses powerful imagery to evoke shared emotions. A highly readable story of empowerment that restores confidence in the belief that we can marshal our heritage to make a future of our own design.

Alone on the Trail

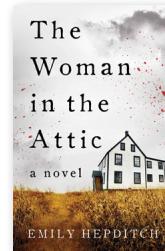

by Emily Hepditch

Four best friends embark on their self-proclaimed adventure of a lifetime. That is, until things start to go wrong. When they stumble upon an illegal hunting shack, they witness a crime that leaves them with dangerous knowledge. Injured, separated, and hunted by expert poachers, the companions must find a way to get back home before they succumb to the dangers of the trail—and to each other.

Alone on the Trail is a riveting merger of adventure and drama that will keep you reading late into the night—and make you think twice before wandering, unprepared, into the Newfoundland wilderness.

The Woman in the Attic

by Emily Hepditch

Hannah Fitzgerald's mother has lived her life in isolation. When Hannah returns to prepare her mother for the transition into assisted living, her childhood home is anything but welcoming. She discovers a trap door to the attic where she finds a mysterious bedroom. Piece by piece, she assembles a picture of her mother's past—a twisted tangle of infatuation, lies, and maybe even murder.

The Woman in the Attic is a claustrophobic psychological thriller wrought with suspense. This novel will put you on the edge of your seat... and make you wary of the unused spaces collecting dust in your home.

Wan

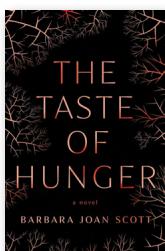

by Dawn Promislow

"Wan is a masterpiece. This beautiful, painterly, sublime, and sonically exquisite novel by Dawn Promislow is a work of utter genius." — Kathryn Kuitenbrouwer, author of All the Broken Things

Wan is the story of Jacqueline, a privileged artist in 1970s South Africa. After an anti-apartheid activist comes to hide in her garden house, Jacqueline's carefully constructed life begins to unravel. Written in gorgeous and spare prose, this exquisite debut novel grapples with questions of complicity and guilt, of privilege, and of the immeasurable value of art and of life.

The Taste of Hunger

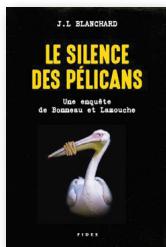

by Barbara Joan Scott

Superb historical fiction about a family of Ukrainian immigrants, the power of desire, eerie Baba Yaga fairytales, and a moment that changes everything.

In Saskatchewan in the 1920s, a 15-year-old Ukrainian immigrant is forced into marriage with a man twice her age. Stuck in a hardscrabble life and with a husband she despises, Olena sets off a chain of events that pulls everyone around them, including her two daughters, into a simmering vortex. The Taste of Hunger explores the pulls of family, the justification of anger, and the possibility of redemption.

Le silence des pélicans

Une enquête de Bonneau et Lamouche

de J.L. Blanchard

Quelle raison pousse un jeune enquêteur brillant mais irrévérencieux à seconder un inspecteur médiocre dont on cherche désespérément à se débarrasser ? Ce duo se retrouve au milieu d'une affaire dont personne n'avait soupçonné l'importance. Au cours de cette enquête, la mort d'une jeune étudiante prend une tournure inattendue. Ce drame aurait-il un lien avec le cadavre d'un marin que l'on vient de repêcher des eaux du fleuve ? Ou avec cette fameuse « affaire des pélicans » ? Et si c'est le cas, qui donc se cache derrière cette toile inquiétante, tissée dans le plus grand secret ?

The Boy's Marble

by Nataša Nuhanovic

Set during the Sarajevo Siege, The Boy's Marble tells the story of experiencing a war through the eyes of a child. A boy and girl promise to meet at midnight on a bench halfway between their apartments and run away together, only the boy never comes. Twenty years later in Montreal, she meets someone who reminds her of the boy and wonders whether it could really be him.

A brilliant anti-war story that wakes the reader in hope and love, and helps understand just how useless, meaningless, and absurd war really is.

Les manuscrits de la main morte

de Christophe Roux-Dufort

Un roman dense, brillant et palpitant, peut-être signé par le nouveau Dan Brown québécois ? En 2030, dans un Occident à bout de souffle, étouffé par la surconsommation et l'accumulation de richesses, surgit une épidémie vraiment étrange qui ne touche que les élites politiques et économiques. Un roman d'anticipation écrit bien avant janvier 2020 et dont l'intrigue, si curieusement collée à notre nouvelle réalité, a de quoi faire trembler.

Sadie X

de Clara Dupuis-Morency

Sadie a quitté Montréal. Chercheuse dans un laboratoire de Marseille, elle passe la majorité de son temps auprès de créatures qui lui montrent comment vivre en parasite. Arriver à dire ce qui dépasse l'intelligence humaine, penser l'inconnu radical qui défait toutes nos catégories, voilà la vocation de Sadie. Jusqu'à ce que le passé lui donne un coup de fil. Un numéro qu'elle n'a pas revu depuis 25 ans. Son virus la rappelle de l'autre côté de l'Atlantique pour lui poser une nouvelle énigme, dans cette ville et dans cette famille où le temps a pris un cours imprévu.

Her First Palestinian

by Saeed Tabebi

Saeed Tabebi's intense, engrossing stories plunge into the lives of characters grappling with their experiences as Palestinian immigrants to Canada. These taut and compelling stories engage the immigrant experience and reflect the Palestinian diaspora with grace and insight.

Her First Palestinian is a much-needed and overdue contribution of stories that document Palestinian issues and culture in the North American diaspora. Saeed Tabebi was born to Palestinian parents in Kuwait and is now based in Toronto, where he works as a writer and lawyer.

This Is How We Love

by Lisa Moore

As the snowstorm of the century rages toward Newfoundland, twenty-one-year-old Xavier is beaten and stabbed in a vicious attack. His mother, Jules, must fight her way through the shuttered streets of St. John's to reach the hospital where Xavier lies unconscious. When a video of the attack surfaces, Jules struggles to make sense of what she sees in the footage—and of what she can't quite make out.

While Xavier's story unfolds, so, too, do the stories that brought him there. This Is How We Love is a tour de force of storytelling and craft from one of Canada's most celebrated authors.

Une autre vie est possible

d'Olga Duhamel-Noyer

L'agitation militante des communistes berce le quotidien du jeune Valéry. Micheline, sa mère, est chef de cellule et lui rêve de révolution. Les camarades distribuent des tracts, collent des affiches, manifestent poing levé, tandis que les fêtes durent jusqu'au bout de la nuit. Les passionnées ébouriffent la chevelure de leurs compagnons, qui jouent les doux guérilleros. Avec eux, elles espèrent croiser la grande Histoire sur le chemin de la lutte. Au détour d'une rupture cependant, ou à la moindre dispute, la violence menace de faire irruption.

In a Land Without Dogs the Cats Learn to Bark

by Jonathan Garfinkel

Part political mystery, part family drama, this novel told in five acts unfolds across multiple generations and explores the fractured nature of identity, the necessity of lies, and the bloody legacy of the Soviet Empire. Partly taking place in the 90s in Tbilisi, as Georgia fights for independence, the novel exposes worrying parallels to the present day. Jonathan Garfinkel is an award-winning author and playwright, whose work has been performed across Canada, Russia, Ukraine, and Germany. He lives in Berlin.

(M)othering An anthology

edited by Anne Sorbie and Heidi Grogan

(M)othering is a universally understood phenomenon that speaks to the act of becoming something unexpected and entirely outside ourselves. This is a collection of writing and art by 56 diverse contributors who write of broken women, mothering their mothers and sisters, choosing not to be mothers, having many mothers, mothering grown children, and much more. They tackle identity, adoption, abortion, addiction, sacrifice, nature and nurture, making art, unravelling, loneliness, anger, and joy. In unison, they speak about experiences far beyond the pathologizing of the pregnant female body.

The Only Good Indian

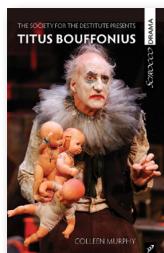

by Various Authors

Blending political theory with dark satire, The Only Good Indian is part lecture, part meditation, and part threat. Or maybe a sacrifice. Each incarnation of The Only Good Indian recruits a new artist to step into the radical headspace of a suicide bomber. In turn, each performer straps themselves into a suicide vest—and struggles to rationalize to the audience such an “irrational” decision. It dissects where our similarities begin and where they end, forcing both the performer and the audience to ask themselves: what would I die for?

The Society for the Destitute Presents Titus Bouffonius

by Colleen Murphy

Five characters who shelter at the Society for the Destitute get a $500 grant to put on a play. They decide to do Shakespeare's Titus Andronicus because it has the most murders—but as you might predict, this is not your average night of Shakespeare. Shocking, outrageous, and stupidly funny, the characters often forget their lines, forget what play they are in, say whatever the hell they want to, or refuse to stay dead when they are killed. Titus Bouffonius is an unflinching look at war, rage, and grief through the eyes of characters who yearn for beauty in the grotesqueness of our world today.

Le cigare au bord des lèvres

d'Akim Gagnon

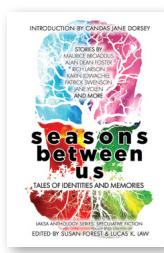

Une bouteille de rouge, un cigare, un ordinateur, un écrivain au travail. Il souhaite raconter sa vie et, surtout, publier un livre. Il a vécu une peine d'amour, il est inspiré. Un pur cliché ! C'est sans compter l'extraordinaire talent d'Akim Gagnon pour l'autodérisson et la mise en scène effrontée et hilarante de lui-même. Ce qui apparaît d'abord comme un bouquet d'anecdotes d'ivoigne révèle un homme aussi émouvant que tonitruant, engagé jusqu'aux tripes dans la vie. Dans son roman, Akim Gagnon cherche l'amour, l'ivresse, l'argent ou une toilette publique avec la même urgence.

Losing Shepherd

by Paul Headrick

Canadian literary star Gordon Bridge is delighted with his celebrity, his family, and his bond with fellow writer Taylor Shepherd. But when Bridge publishes a scathing review of Shepherd's new novel, demonstrating how true critical insight is unswayed by personal loyalty, his hubris destroys the friendship, and his world begins to crumble. Finally, he starts a memoir, a sometimes hilarious, but urgent attempt to come to terms with his past and reshape his present. The result, Losing Shepherd, is a testament to literature and also to friendship, its power to lift and its ability to destroy.

The Artist and the Assassin

by Mark Frutkin

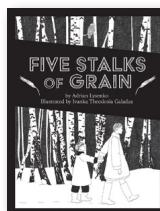

Rome, 1600. The painter Caravaggio is revered and reviled by his patrons as well as his fellow artists. His innovative paintings and his blazing temper have made him powerful friends, but also powerful enemies—enemies who are determined to quench the flame of his talent. What Caravaggio does not know is that one of his models, Luca Passarelli, is an assassin, a bitter man, who has 'breathed in death' and committed murder on multiple occasions. What the artist does not know is that when next they meet it will not be a canvas that brings them together, but revenge... and death.

Canadian university presses publish authoritative works of high-quality non-fiction in the social sciences and humanities.

Queasy
by Madeline Sonik

While still grieving her father's death and the end of her first romantic relationship, Madeline Sonik moved with her mother from Ontario to a seaside village in England. As a teen at war with herself, nothing could have prepared her for the incredible cultural differences that she would encounter, nor the social and political tumult that was England at the time. The country seemed poised on the cusp of change and a new direction. It was in this unlikely crucible of hope and despair, of promise and discord where the author found the sustenance to fuel her development as a person and writer.

Thick Skin
Field Notes From A Sister In The Brotherhood
by Hilary Peach

Thick Skin: Field Notes from a Sister In The Brotherhood, is a deep dive into the secret language and hidden culture of one of the most esoteric heavy construction trades: Boilmaking. For more than two decades, Hilary Peach worked as a transient welder—and one of the only women—in the Boilermakers Union. At times edging up to the surreal, Thick Skin is a collection of strange stories carefully told, in tenderness and ferocity, for anyone who has spent time in a trade, or is curious about the unseen world of industrial construction.

Truth Behind Bars
Reflections on the Fate of the Russian Revolution
by Paul Kellogg

Just north of the Arctic Circle is the settlement of Vorkuta, a notorious camp in the Gulag internment system that witnessed three pivotal moments in Russian history. Paul Kellogg uses the story of Vorkuta as a frame with which to re-assess the Russian Revolution. Kellogg explores the persistence and creativity of workers' resistance in even the darkest hours of authoritarian repression and offers new perspectives on the failure of democratic governance after the Russian Revolution.

World Bolshevism
by Iuli Martov
translated by Paul Kellogg and Mariya Melentyeva

Iuli Martov, Lenin's contemporary and a prominent figure in the Russian Social Democratic Labour Party, was a prolific writer whose work was lost to history after decades of censorship. This translation of his 1919 monograph about the pivotal role of a temporary new class of peasants-in-uniform during the Russian Revolution makes his work available in English for the first time in a hundred years.

Bent out of Shape

Shame, Solidarity, and Women's Bodies at Work
by Karen Messing

Award-winning ergonomist Karen Messing is talking with women—women who wire circuit boards, clean toilets, drive forklifts, care for children, serve food, run labs. What she finds is a workforce in harm's way, choked into silence, whose physical and mental health invariably comes in second place: underestimated, underrepresented, understudied, underpaid. Should workplaces treat all bodies the same? With confidence, empathy, and humour, Messing navigates the minefield that is naming sex and biology on the job, refusing to play into stereotypes or play down the lived experiences of women.

Insatiable Hunger

Colonial Encounters in Context

by Joseph W. Graham

Positively reviewed by the likes of Barbara Alice Mann and the late Lee Maracle, Insatiable Hunger is an exploration of the worldviews that underpinned settler colonialism. The sixteenth-century European wars of religion set the stage for mass migration to the New World. Of course, there was nothing new about the New World to Indigenous peoples who had lived there for millennia. Insatiable Hunger compares European historical accounts and Indigenous stories of contact to illustrate the wide cultural chasm that separated the two civilizations.

Un bien nécessaire

Eloge de la traduction littéraire

de Lori Saint-Martin

La traduction est une rencontre. Rencontre éprouvante, émouvante, exigeante, passionnée et féconde ; espace de chevauchement, de création ; passage qui donne une deuxième, une énième vie aux textes. Pourtant, ici comme ailleurs, elle est souvent méprisée, méconnue ou frappée de soupçon. Ce livre propose d'en finir avec le soupçon. De jeter la lumière sur un métier d'ombre. De montrer que la traduction littéraire est miracle, beauté, plénitude.

Gentrification Is Inevitable and Other Lies

by Leslie Kern

From the author of the best-selling Feminist City, this urbanite's guide to gentrification knocks down the myths and exposes the forces behind the most urgent housing crisis of our time. Kern travels to Toronto, New York, London, and Paris to look beyond the familiar and false stories we tell ourselves about class, money, and taste. What she brings back is an accessible, radical guide on the often-invisible forces that shape urban neighbourhoods: settler-colonialism, racism, sexism, ageism, ableism, and more. Gentrification is not inevitable if city lovers work together to turn the tide.

Stand on Guard for Whom?

A People's History of the Canadian Military
by Yves Engler

Stand on Guard for Whom? is the first book to present a history of the Canadian military from the perspective of its victims. In his eleventh book, Yves Engler, the prolific author and critic of Canadian politics, exposes the reality of Canadian wars, repression, and military culture despite the mythologies of Canada as an agent for international peacekeeping and humanitarianism. This book reveals the hidden militarism in Canadian life, and reminds us that the first step to contest it is to recognize its pervasiveness and power.

Principles and Techniques for the Aspiring Surgeon What Great Surgeons Do Without Thinking

by Dr. Keegan Guidolin

All great surgeons master their craft over many years in the operating room, and much of what they know is learned implicitly—by doing—over countless hours of experience performing surgery. In this must-have guide for medical students and surgical residents, Dr. Keegan Guidolin makes the implicit learning of experienced surgeons explicit so that you can learn the things that nobody thinks to teach you. Topics include the essentials of sutures and needles, knots and knot tying, key equipment, bedside procedures, and much more.

Disfigured

On Fairy Tales, Disability, and Making Space
by Amanda Leduc

Fairy tales shape how we see the world, so what happens when you identify more with the Beast than Beauty?

If every disabled character is mocked and mistreated, how does the Beast ever imagine a happily-ever-after? Amanda Leduc looks at fairy tales from the Brothers Grimm to Disney, showing us how they influence our expectations and behaviour and linking the quest for disability rights to new kinds of stories that celebrate difference.

Has Populism Won?

The War on Liberal Democracy
by Daniel Drache and Marc D. Froese

From Trump to Putin and from Poland to the Philippines, rapid change and rising inequality have fuelled a retreat into tribalist nationalism fed by a fear of being left behind. Populist leaders tap into this fear, with empty promises of looking out for the little guy and promising a return to national greatness. Why are we so susceptible to this political style? If Putin is defeated in his unprovoked war on Ukraine, will vociferous publics turn against the insurgency? This book shows how and why this disturbing global political trend has taken root and what it will take to turn the tide.

Dinner on Mars The Technologies That Will Feed the Red Planet and Transform Agriculture on Earth

by Lenore Newman and Evan D.G. Fraser

From Impossible Burgers to lab-made sushi, two witty, plugged-in food scientists explore leading-edge AgTech for the answer to feeding a settlement on Mars—and nine billion Earthlings too.

Feeding a Martian is one of the greatest challenges in the history of agriculture. If we can figure out how to sustain ourselves on Mars, we will know how to do it on Earth too. In Dinner on Mars, authors Fraser and Newman show how setting the table off-planet will supercharge efforts to produce food sustainably here at home.

The Y Method Learning to be a de-consumer

by Louis-Philippe Pratte

We are constantly being reminded that our planet is dying and that taking care of the environment should be our top priority. At the same time, we are bombarded with marketing campaigns trying to convince us to buy more. This essay takes a pragmatic look at consumption and what lies beneath the surface, speaking to ecology and the merciless pace of modern life—despite our best intentions. The Y Method invites readers to take a step back and reflect on their own habits in order to make concrete changes to reduce, share, and work towards building a simpler, more vertical life.

Woman, Watching

Louise de Kiriline Lawrence and the Songbirds of Pimisi Bay

by Merilyn Simonds

Referred to as a Canadian Rachel Carson, Louise de Kiriline Lawrence lived and worked in an isolated log cabin near North Bay. After her husband was murdered by Bolsheviks, she refused her Swedish privilege and joined the Canadian Red Cross, and became a nurse to the Dionne quintuplets. Repulsed by the media circus, she retreated to her wilderness cabin, where she devoted herself to studying the birds that nested in her forest. Author of six books and scores of magazine stories, de Kiriline Lawrence and her "loghouse nest" became a Mecca for international ornithologists.

Dialogues with Oasis

Volumes I, II, III, IV

by JRobert

The current times require that we take a step closer to a better understanding of who we are, the true purpose of our lives and our real place in the universe. When everything is done to divert our attention, confuse our instincts and invalidate our intuitions, how can we reconnect with our inner dimension so as to journey towards a better life and a successful passage from this life to the next? The Oasis collection beautifully sheds light on these questions. It is a spirituality for our time, modern and convivial, which relieves us of the weight of words and remorse and leads us to our respective realities.

L'illusion carboneutre

Quel temps fera-t-il vraiment après 2050 ?

by Gaétan Lafrance

What will the weather be like after 2050? Wondering what the weather will be like tomorrow also means wondering what kind of society we will leave to future generations. One thing is certain: the ecological or energy transition will be far from a picnic. Overpopulation and its subsequent food needs and consumption will require increasing energy production. Will we be able to reduce our carbon, oil, and natural gas footprint? What alternative solutions exist? An essay that paints a clear-eyed and uncompromising picture of the urgent energy and climate choices to be made.

Planktonia

The Nightly Migration of the Ocean's Smallest Creatures

by Erich Hoyt

In Planktonia, Erich Hoyt invites readers to dive into the dazzling nighttime ocean. Countless microscopic plankton—larval creatures such as ornate ghost pipefish, left-handed hermit crabs, and bony-eared assfish—ascend to the upper waters to feed, returning to the depths before sunrise. These tiny planktonic creatures are delicate and beautiful; some look terrifying; and most look nothing like the creatures they will become as adults. Everyone comes here for the midnight feast, and they are all ravenously hungry.

Armer la rage Pour une littérature de combat

de Marie-Pier Lafontaine

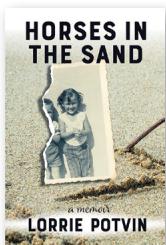

Armer la rage est une charge contre la culture du viol, la violence familiale et une société qui, plutôt que d'apprendre aux femmes à contre-attaquer en cas d'agression sexuelle, préfère les mettre en garde contre le risque de se défendre. Cet essai jette un regard à la fois intime et politique sur les traumas sexuels dans leurs différentes modalités (directe, indirecte et insidieuse), sur le droit des femmes à l'autodéfense et sur le pouvoir de l'écriture pour un sujet qui n'a su qu'à l'âge adulte qu'il existe des familles préservées de la terreur.

Horses in the Sand

by Lorrie Potvin

Horses in the Sand, the author's sequel to First Gear. A Motorcycle Memoir, documents a queer Métis woman's journey from a sparse childhood to becoming a trades-woman, teacher, and artist. With courage, humour, and honesty, Lorrie describes what it was like to grow up starkly different and how "coming out" became a lifelong process of self-acceptance and changing identities. Lorrie's memoir is a celebration of making art, telling stories, and of finding her birth father, a family of half-siblings, and an Indigenous community whose presence she had always felt, but never knew she belonged to.

Nos renoncements Réflexions sur la masculinité et la violence

de Julien Gravelle

La violence, et particulièrement la violence en contexte amoureux, est un phénomène social qui nous heurte et nous indigne d'autant plus qu'elle perdure malgré les avancées du féminisme. Dans cet essai, Julien Gravelle s'éloigne de la fiction pour témoigner de son expérience d'intervenant dans un organisme offrant des services aux hommes ayant des comportements violents. Loin d'éviter les sujets difficiles, il nous parle de contrôle, de masculinité, de réhabilitation et surtout de prévention, clé de voûte de toute sa réflexion.

Amour amour amour La puissance de l'acceptation

by Lise Bourbeau, illustrated by Monica Shields

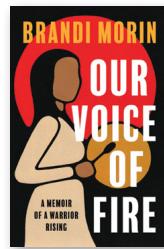

What do LOVE and ACCEPTANCE have in common? We all experience a dozen situations on a daily basis; some are difficult to accept and that creates conflict, discomfort, and lack of satisfaction. With the help of real life experiences, the reader will understand the difference between ACCEPTANCE, SUBMISSION, and UNDERSTANDING. By identifying themselves with these experiences, they will recognize the different facets of love. Through a variety of methods, the author guides us to accept sickness, death, old age, loss, decisions, physical appearance, weaknesses, and difficult relationships.

A wildfire of a debut memoir by French/Cree/Iroquois journalist Brandi Morin. Brandi Morin is a survivor of the Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls crisis and uses her experience to tell the stories of those who did not survive the rampant violence. From her time as a foster kid and runaway who fell victim to predatory men and an oppressive system to her career as an internationally acclaimed journalist, Our Voice of Fire chronicles Morin's journey to overcome enormous adversity and find her purpose, and her power, through journalism.

Infertilité Traverser la tempête

de Véronique Leduc, illustré par Mathilde Corbeil

En voulant devenir maman, la journaliste Véronique Leduc ne se doutait pas qu'au cours des cinq années qui suivraient s'enchaîneraient les injections, les médicaments, les inséminations et les fécondations in vitro, mais aussi les maladresses de son entourage, l'incompréhension, la culpabilité, l'épuisement, les idées sombres, le violent sentiment d'injustice, les nombreux deuils. Elle dresse ici son récit, qu'elle entrecoupe d'entrevues, de témoignages et de réflexions. En résulte un bricolage à la fois intime, authentique et informatif sur l'infertilité, une réalité encore trop taboue.

Parole tenue

Les nuits d'un confinement, mars - avril 2020

de Wajdi Mouawad

En confinement, Wajdi Mouawad entreprend un fulgurant voyage intérieur, depuis le microcosme qui est le sien jusqu'à l'œil cyclopéen du big bang où brillent des étoiles mortes. Nous voilà dans le bureau de Peter Handke et dans la maison de retraite de son père, au bord du fleuve Saint-Laurent, à Montréal, en Grèce, au Groenland, au Liban de son enfance. À travers Kafka et Star Wars, en passant par la phonétique française et le temple apollinien de Delphes, il fait valser la folie sur une lame de rasoir, rêver le même rêve aux membres de la tribu humaine, rugir la bestialité du quotidien.

Les 5 grands besoins des enfants nouveaux Des outils pour vivre en harmonie avec les enfants de tout âge

by Lise Bourbeau

In her 27th book, Lise Bourbeau shares what she learned with her three children, eight grandsons and two great granddaughters, and particularly, her insight on what works and what doesn't! Intended for parents of all ages and educators, this book aims to help everyone become an even better educator, parent or grandparent. And you will do it with joy, ease and especially by learning to let go! The author reveals the five greatest needs of children of this era and will teach you many practical tools to understand how to listen to those needs, which will in turn, benefit the child and yourself.

L'alliance de la brebis

de Gabrielle Lavallée

Dans cette nouvelle édition revue et augmentée, madame Lavallée nous raconte, dans un style très vivant, ses origines, ses études, ses voyages, ses multiples expériences de la vie et, enfin, sa rencontre avec Thériault, ce soi-disant guide représentant Dieu sur terre. Une expérience d'une rare intensité racontée avec beaucoup de franchise et de sensibilité. Une progression dramatique réservée aux lecteurs aguerris, où déferle page après page un véritable cyclone d'amour et de haine qu'aucun romancier n'oserait même imaginer.

Le pouvoir de vos rêves

de Nicole Gratton

Dormir n'est pas inutile. Au contraire, lorsqu'on donne au corps une pause, cela permet non seulement un repos physique, mais aussi un renouvellement psychique des plus bienfaisants. Même que certains rêves, d'une vivacité étonnante, peuvent ouvrir les portes du subconscient et conférer un pouvoir insoupçonné. Or, a-t-on la capacité d'atteindre cet état d'apaisement réparateur au quotidien tout en suivant le rythme effréné de la vie ? Nicole Gratton explique comment reprendre le contrôle de ses nuits, afin d'en fouiller les mystères et de profiter d'une expérience régénératrice complète.

De zéro à millionnaire*Investir en bourse sans souffrir

de Nicolas Bérubé

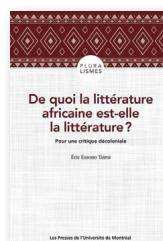

Au moment où les Québécois n'ont jamais été aussi nombreux à transiger à la Bourse, le nouveau livre de Nicolas Bérubé révèle comment n'importe quel investisseur peut s'enrichir et battre les pros à la Bourse en y investissant moins de 15 minutes par année. En utilisant des exemples accrocheurs, l'auteur parvient à transformer un sujet qui peut être aride en un parcours captivant à travers l'histoire, la psychologie et la finance. L'auteur identifie les bonnes façons d'investir, et donne des conseils concrets pour se lancer ou prendre ses placements en main dès aujourd'hui.

La saga SNC-Lavalin*Un thriller géopolitique

de Vincent Larouche

Grâce à un accès inédit à plusieurs acteurs de la saga SNC-Lavalin, Vincent Larouche dévoile les coulisses du thriller géopolitique qui s'est joué autour du fleuron québécois de l'ingénierie pendant un quart de siècle. Il raconte la genèse des enquêtes policières qui ont mené à la condamnation de la firme. Ses recherches montrent comment l'arrestation d'un homme de main du baron de la drogue Pablo Escobar à Houston a déclenché une réaction en chaîne dans plusieurs pays qui allait bouleverser le monde des affaires canadien et provoquer une crise au sein même du bureau du premier ministre.

De quoi la littérature africaine est-elle la littérature ?*Pour une critique décoloniale

d'Eric Essono Tsimi

Cet ouvrage propose une réflexion sur la validité scientifique et sociale d'une philosophie de la rupture, indispensable au développement d'une certaine critique. Par ailleurs, des entretiens avec quatre écrivains permettent de répondre à des questions qui servent de jalons tout au long du livre : la littérature africaine existe-t-elle ? Que valent ses écrivains et leurs éditeurs ? Où sont ses lecteurs et son public ? Qu'en disent ses critiques, les collections qui l'accueillent, et les prix littéraires qu'elle reçoit ? De quelle couleur sont ses agents et ses traducteurs ?

Houellebecq entre poème et prose

d'Olivier Parenteau

L'originalité de ce livre tient d'abord à ce qu'il est le premier ouvrage universitaire à mettre aussi nettement en valeur l'importance de la poésie dans l'œuvre de l'écrivain, sans pour autant négliger ses romans. Les études rassemblées dans ce volume permettent d'envisager sous un éclairage nouveau les œuvres poétiques et romanesques de Houellebecq, qui prennent systématiquement le réel à bras-le-corps, tout en restant attentifs aux manifestations du monde sensible, aux passions et aux déchirements qui sont le lot de tout individu.

Devant l'histoire en crise*Raymond Aron et Leo Strauss

de Sophie Marcotte Chénard

Que nous apprend l'histoire ? Est-il vrai que trop d'histoire empêche d'agir et de juger ? Quels rapports la philosophie politique peut-elle entretenir avec le passé ? Ces questions vitales sont au cœur de la discussion que nouent Raymond Aron (1905-1983) et Leo Strauss (1899-1973) et qui prend pour point de départ les réflexions de Max Weber sur les limites de l'historicisme et le polythéisme des valeurs. Au croisement de l'épistémologie de l'histoire et de la théorie politique, Sophie Marcotte Chénard reconstruit ici le dialogue qu'ont entretenu ces deux figures majeures du XX^e siècle.

La fabrique des États de facto Ni guerre ni paix

de Magdalena Dembi'Nska

Comment expliquer la survie des États de facto, ces régions séparatistes qui échappent au contrôle des capitales et qui proclament leur indépendance sans pour autant obtenir la reconnaissance internationale ? Alors que la plupart des écrits se concentrent sur l'impasse diplomatique et les jeux de pouvoir géopolitique, l'auteure met en lumière les processus internes de ces anomalies du système international. Elle montre comment ces entités politiques fabriquent une capacité économique et institutionnelle ainsi qu'une identité collective, qui réussissent à les ancrer dans l'imaginaire collectif.

La monstruosité en face

Les sciences et leurs monstres dans la fiction
de Jean-François Chassay

Le Frankenstein de Mary Shelley, la figure la plus ancienne examinée dans cet ouvrage, sert un peu de fil conducteur à ce parcours qui s'attarde sur des œuvres de fiction dans lesquelles le monstre est pensé par la science et la technologie, ou plutôt par leur imaginaire souvent débridé. Dans ce cadre précis, le fantasme du monstre permet de diverses façons de se pencher sur des concepts comme ceux d'hybridité, d'altérité, de cyborg, d'animalité humaine et sur des rapports plus complexes que prévu entre nature et culture.

Les racistes n'ont jamais vu la mer

de Rodney Saint-Éloi et Yara El-Ghadban

Deux écrivains racisés pensent le racisme dans une conversation à bâtons rompus. Sans animosité ni complaisance. Ils font appel à leurs expériences et à leur vécu. Ils invoquent la traversée de leurs pays d'origine au Québec. Un livre coup de poing où tout se dit entre vous, entre nous, ces sujets délicats qu'on n'ose pas aborder. Ils essaient de tout nommer, même ces mots tabous que l'on se chuchote, pour dépasser l'entre-soi et trouver le langage qui permet de regarder demain et de construire un vivre ensemble.

Seize temps noirs pour apprendre à dire kuei

de Philippe Némeh-Nombré

Seize temps noirs pour apprendre à dire kuei raconte ces moments et ces gestes dont on ne parle pas et qui pourtant illustrent les proximités et les solidarités entre les communautés noires et autochtones au Québec. Histoire, scènes, archives se recoupent, se répètent en seize fragments, comme autant d'improvisations musicales, pour réimager à partir d'une perspective noire, l'histoire et les possibilités de la rencontre des peuples au-delà de la violence coloniale.

Back to the Stone Age Race and Prehistory in Contemporary Culture

by Ben Pitcher

Prehistoric human life is a common reference point in contemporary culture, inspiring attempts to become happier and healthier people. In Back to the Stone Age, Ben Pitcher explores how ideas about race are woven into the origin stories we use to explain who we are and where we came from. Using examples from popular culture, Pitcher argues that flights back in time provide revealing insights into present-day obsessions. By opening up the prehistoric to critical contestation, he places racial justice at the centre of questions about the existence of Homo sapiens in the contemporary world.

Dark Days at Noon

The Future of Fire

by Edward Struzik

The catastrophic wildfires advancing through North America and other parts of the world are not unprecedented. Fires loomed large once human activity began to warm the climate in the 1820s. Dark Days at Noon provides a broad history of wildfire in North America in the hopes that we may learn from how we managed fire in the past and apply those lessons in the future. Edward Struzik argues that wildfire science needs to guide the future of fire management and warns of what may happen in the future if we do not learn to live with fire as the continent's Indigenous Peoples once did.

From Big Bang to Big Data

A History of the Media

by Pelle Snickars, Johan Jarlbrink, and Patrik Lundell

Does media history really start with a bang? More than just newspapers, television and social networks, media are the means by which information is communicated, from church bells to modern identity documents. From Big Bang to Big Data is a long history of the media—how it has been established, used, and transformed from the beginning of recorded time until the present. The concerns raised about media today, privacy, piracy, and declining cultural standards, preoccupied earlier generations too. In a playful style, the authors show us how every society has been a media society in its own way.

Passions for Birds

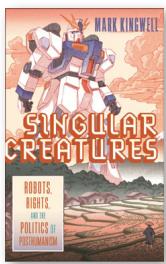

Science, Sentiment, and Sport

by Sean Nixon

Whether as sources of pleasure to be fed and watched, as objects of sport to be hunted and killed, wild birds evoke strong feelings. Sean Nixon traces the transformation of these human passions for wild birds from the early 20th century through the 1970s. Nixon demonstrates how new traditions in birdwatching and conservation, field sports, and bird harvesting mobilized similar feelings towards birds. Passions for Birds sheds light on the ways in which wild birds helped shape humans throughout the 20th century, as well as how birds became burdened with cultural meanings and social anxieties.

Singular Creatures

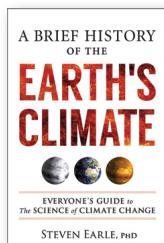

Robots, Rights, and the Politics of Posthumanism

by Mark Kingwell

Anxiety about non-human intelligent machines is a longstanding theme of cultural production and consumption. The source of this anxiety is clear. Non-human conscious entities may turn out to be superior to any biological form of life. Although today's AI fall short of this level of sophistication, Mark Kingwell argues that they are already more than human in important ways, and likely to become more so as time goes on. In Singular Creatures, Kingwell plumbs the depths of cultural and political meaning in the apparent transition to posthuman life.

Living the 1.5 Degree Lifestyle

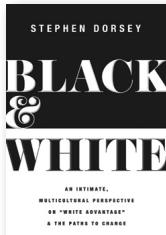

Why Individual Climate Action Matters More than Ever

by Lloyd Alter

Living the 1.5 Degree Lifestyle reveals the carbon cost of everything we do. The international scientific consensus is that we have less than a decade to drastically slash our collective carbon emissions to keep global heating to 1.5 degrees and avert catastrophe. This means that many of us have to cut our individual carbon footprints by over 80% to 2.5 tonnes per person per year by 2030. Living the 1.5 Degree Lifestyle is a journey toward a life of quality over quantity, and sufficiency over efficiency, as we race to save our only home from catastrophic heating.

L'alimentation autonome du bébé

Recettes et infos pratiques pour s'initier à la DME

La diversification alimentaire menée par l'enfant (DME), qui consiste à laisser le bébé se nourrir lui-même et à son rythme dès l'âge de 6 mois, fait de plus en plus d'adeptes. Pas de plan d'intégration des aliments à suivre et à respecter, pas de purées à préparer... Toute la famille partage le même repas ! Mais ce type d'alimentation vient aussi avec son lot de questions : quel type d'aliments offrir à son enfant ? Quelle taille doivent avoir les morceaux ? Quoi faire si tout ne se déroule pas comme prévu ? Comment éviter les carences ? Bref, comment combler les besoins de bébé ?

Bittersweet

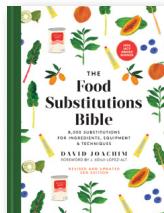

Who benefits from our kindness?

by Véronique Alarie

The term "kindness" has become a buzzword. While it has certainly inspired many to act more compassionately, could it be that others have co-opted this trend to use it for their own purposes? Could it be that its omnipresence contributes to exerting undue pressure on certain segments of the population that are already overly solicited? This essay is an invitation to a kindness that is indeed... kind?

Emilio Comici

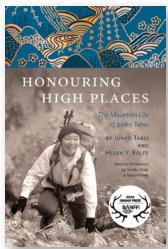

Angel of the Dolomites

by David Smart

Winner of the Banff Mountain Book Competition: Climbing Literature Award. The first English-language biography of one of the most renowned Italian climbers, Emilio Comici, who bagged over 200 first ascents in the Eastern Alps prior to his death at 39 years of age in 1940. Between 1925 and his death in 1940, Emilio Comici was the pre-eminent climber in the Eastern Alps, the hotbed of global rock climbing at that time. He made first ascents on some of the highest and most notorious walls in the Alps, including the northwest face of the Civetta, as well as dozens of other climbs.

Honouring High Places The Mountain Life of Junko Tabei

by Junko Tabei and Helen Y. Rolfe

A collection of stories and reflections based on the memoirs of Junko Tabei (1939–2016), the first woman to climb Mount Everest and the Seven Summits. With reminiscences of the early days of female climbers on Everest, the deaths of fellow mountaineers, Tabei's pursuit of Mount Tomur, a cancer diagnosis, and efforts to restore a love for nature in the surviving youth of the Fukushima earthquake and tsunami that hit Japan in 2011, this beautiful collection of essays captures the essence of a notable time and the strength of character of one of the world's female mountaineering pioneers.

Moon Madness Dr. Louise Aall, Sixty Years of Healing in Africa

by Alan Twigg

Norwegian by birth, Dr. Louise Aall studied medicine in Germany and Switzerland. She worked as an itinerant bush doctor in Tanzania. She was the first western physician to identify and treat a variant of epilepsy. The Red Cross asked her to manage a 300-bed hospital in the Belgian Congo. Protected by UN soldiers, she served as the hospital's lone bedside physician during the civil war. Dr. Albert Schweitzer asked her to work with him in Gabon. Her innovative treatment and rehabilitation programs for epilepsy in Tanzania continue to benefit thousands of African patients with "moon madness."

Stay Woke, Not Broke Protect Your Brand in Today's Business Climate

by Alison Tedford

Businesses wanting to stay relevant and do the right thing are asking questions such as "What is 'woke'?" and "How can you avoid getting 'cancelled'?" Business owners are asking these questions and often don't know how to sell with sensitivity, share their stances on social justice issues, or navigate polarizing landscapes and "cancel culture" traps. This book explains how to create diversity statements, develop content plans for ongoing social justice topics, and moderate your communities to let important conversations take place. It is social justice education for business owners.

Work From Home Zone Helping Entrepreneurs and Employees Integrate Work and Life

by Angela Crocker

This is the definitive guide to working from home for employees and entrepreneurs. Most books about working from home are written for the businesses and employers managing others. This book is for the employees and the self-employed who are often overlooked when it comes to how to handle working from home. Including how-tos and case studies, Crocker discusses how to carve out your work space and meeting space, deal with communication technologies, and, of course, set and maintain boundaries for a healthy and happy work and home life.

Born with a Copper Spoon A Global History of Copper, 1830–1980

by Robrecht Declercq, Duncan Money, and Hans Otto Frøland

Born with a Copper Spoon examines how the metal has been produced and distributed around the globe. Large-scale production has affected ecologies, states, and companies, while creating and even destroying local communities dependent on volatile commodity markets. Kenneth Kaunda once remarked that Zambians were "born with a copper spoon in our mouths" but few societies managed to profit from copper's abundance. From copper cartels to the consequences of resource nationalism, Born with a Copper Spoon delivers a global perspective on one of the world's most important metals.

Front-Wave Boomers Growing (Very) Old, Staying Connected, and Reimagining Aging

by Gillian Ranson

Boomers are heading into (very) old age following a pandemic, a time of overt ageism and deficient eldercare. The front wave, now in their seventies, are on the brink of life changes that will challenge everyone, and our social systems. Gillian Ranson, a front-wave boomer herself, investigates what they are doing to prepare for old age. She profiles a diversity of front-wave boomers and finds that they share one thing: the need for intimate, caring social ties. This book of the voices of our elders is of vital importance as we undergo this massive global demographic shift.

In the Name of Wild One Family, Five Years, Ten Countries, and a New Vision of Wildness

by Phillip Vannini and April Vannini

Five continents. Ten countries. Twenty Natural World Heritage sites in five years. In the Name of Wild is the international story of what happened when one family set out to learn what wildness means to people around the world. What draws us to seek out wild places? Do they mean the same to everyone? Part travelogue, part ethnography, this book takes us on a journey into the lives of the people who call places such as Tasmania, Patagonia, and Iceland home. They reveal that wildness isn't about the absence of people. It's about connections, kinship, and coexistence with the land.

Ordinary Deaths Stories from Memory

by Samuel LeBaron

In Ordinary Deaths, Dr. Samuel LeBaron reminds us of our need for human connection when faced with death and loss. Based on more than 30 years of working with children and adults dying from cancer, LeBaron's memoir contains stories of longing, confusion, love, and humility—often woven together. Sharing recollections from his childhood in rural Alberta and experiences from his career, LeBaron reveals a life of vital connection and intimacy with others. Writing as he faces his own terminal illness—stage IV lung cancer—LeBaron hopes to help readers find solace and confidence.

Gifts from Amin Ugandan Asian Refugees in Canada

by Shezan Muhammed

In August 1972, military leader and despot Idi Amin expelled Asian Ugandans from the country, professing to return control of the economy to "Ugandan citizens." Inside 90 days, 50,000 Ugandans of South Asian descent were forced to seek asylum elsewhere; nearly 8,000 resettled in Canada. This major migration event marked the first time Canada accepted a large group of predominantly Muslim, non-European, non-white refugees. As the number of forcibly displaced people around the world continue to rise, Muhammed's analysis of policymaking and refugee experience is eminently relevant.

Defining Sexual Misconduct

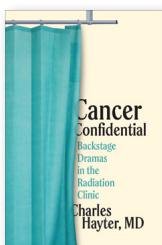

Power, Media, and #MeToo
by Stacey Hannem and Christopher J. Schneider

"This book is required reading for anyone who wants to understand how far we have come in recognizing the prevalence of sexual misconduct, and how much work is left to do in the fight for justice."—Alyssa Milano

Defining Sexual Misconduct investigates the shifts in media coverage of sexual violence and changes in public discourse about sexual harm. Hannem and Schneider trace contemporary shifts in power in relation to the increased recognition and censure of sexual misconduct and the ways in which the shifting social landscape is communicated in the media coverage of sexual misconduct.

Cancer Confidential

Backstage Dramas in the Radiation Clinic
by Charles Hayter, MD

Each year, almost 20 million people worldwide receive a cancer diagnosis, yet few are prepared for the difficult emotional journey ahead. Shortly after Dr. Charles Hayter graduated as a cancer specialist, his father was diagnosed with terminal cancer. His medical training had not prepared him for the turmoil he witnessed in himself, his patients, and their loved ones. With vivid style, Dr. Hayter breaks down the stigma to share stories of individuals and their families dealing with cancer—often through avoidance, denial, and conflict, but also through quiet courage, resilience, and humour.

Sightlines

Beyond the Beyond in Ireland
by Eileen Kane

It is the 1960s, and Ireland hopes to join the new EU. The government plans to protect Ireland's cultural identity with small factories in the Gaeltacht, remote, traditional Irish-speaking villages. But will farmers go into the factories? Will their children still emigrate? And will a young anthropologist make sense of it all in time to write her thesis? With her signature humor and charm, Eileen Kane evokes County Donegal with a detailed account of rural Irish life in a period of rapid change. Sightlines is a story of life on the edges, and the people who fall outside them.

Tuzo

The Unlikely Revolutionary of Plate Tectonics
by Nick Eyles

Most of us accept plate tectonics without hesitation today, but their discovery forever changed how we think of planet Earth. Tuzo tells the fascinating life story of Canadian geologist John "Jock" Tuzo Wilson, who in 1961 embraced the theories of moving continents despite strong opposition. Against the backdrop of the social and political upheavals of the 1960s, plate tectonics revolutionized the science of geology. Nick Eyles blends Tuzo's life story with insights into the life cycle of scientific theories. Gorgeously illustrated, Tuzo will appeal to anyone interested in the natural world.

A Sentimental Education

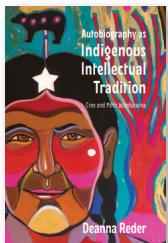

by Hannah McGregor

In A Sentimental Education, Hannah McGregor explores what podcasting has taught her about doing feminist scholarship not as a methodology but as a way of life.

Moving between memoir and theory, these essays consider the collective practices of feminist meaning-making in activities like reading, critique, podcasting, and even mourning. In part this book is a memoir of one person's education as a reader and thinker, and in part it is an analysis of some of the genres and aesthetic modes that have been sites of feminist meaning-making: the sentimental, the personal, the banal, and the relatable.

Autobiography as Indigenous Intellectual Tradition

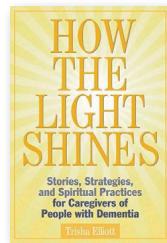

Cree and Métis âcimisowina

by Deanna Reder

Non-Indigenous scholars have long perpetrated the notion that Indigenous people were disinclined to talk about their lives and underscored the assumption that autobiography is a European invention. Deanna Reder challenges such assumptions by calling attention to longstanding autobiographical practices engrained in Cree and Métis, or nêhiyawak, culture and examining examples of Indigenous life writing. Blended with family stories and drawing on historical research, Reder examines censored and suppressed writing by nêhiyawak intellectuals such as Maria Campbell, Edward Ahenakew, and James Brady.

The Wolf Suit

by Sid Sharp

A hilarious and touching debut graphic novel about the pressures of conformity and conquering fear by finding community.

A Junior Library Guild Gold Standard Selection!

Bellwether Riggwelter is, once again, out of blackberries. This time, rather than tiptoe through a forest full of predators, he comes up with a new plan. He will keep himself safe by blending in—he will sew a Wolf Suit! The disguise works perfectly... sort of. With humor, darkness, and insight reminiscent of Jon Klassen and Edward Gorey, Sharp turns the idiom "wolf in sheep's clothing" on its head.

Te laisser partir

de Danielle Chaperon, illustré par Nathalie Dion

Un matin, une fillette attrape un arc-en-ciel et l'enferme dans un bocal en verre. Au début, l'arc-en-ciel paraît hésitant dans son nouvel environnement. Pourtant, l'enfant en prend bien soin. Elle lui donne des friandises, le montre à ses amis et l'emmène partout avec elle. Tous deux deviennent inséparables ? Mais, un jour, l'arc-en-ciel commence à déperir. Malgré les blagues et les grimaces de la fillette, rien ne semble lui redonner le sourire.

Trèfle

de Nadine Robert, illustré par Qin Leng

Trèfle et sa famille habitent dans une ferme. À la chèvrerie, il y a toujours un tas de choses à faire, comme cueillir des bleus ou ramasser des moules. Trèfle a envie de faire toutes ces choses, mais en choisir une seule est très difficile. Le jour où la petite chèvre Pivoine s'aventure loin de la ferme, Trèfle comprend que, pour la sauver, elle devra agir rapidement, sans hésiter. En plaçant Trèfle dans une situation difficile, l'autrice Nadine Robert et l'illustratrice Qin Leng montrent l'importance d'apprendre tôt à prendre des décisions.

Pollution plastique

d'Andrée Poulin et Jean Morin

Il y a eu l'âge de pierre, suivi de l'âge du bronze et de l'âge du fer. Nous sommes maintenant à l'ère du plastique. Car on le retrouve partout. PARTOUT ! Autant, le plastique est merveilleux, car il est léger, souple, résistant, autant il est une menace pour la planète et nos océans, et pour toutes les créatures qui y vivent. Pollution plastique est un documentaire complet, fouillé et des plus pertinents qui fait réfléchir sur notre dépendance au plastique et sur son impact environnemental. Il donne aussi des pistes pour réduire notre consommation et développer des comportements responsables.

Blanket

by Ruth Ohi

It's a beautiful morning, but when Cat wakes up, the world feels gray. Cat wraps up in a blanket and hides—until Dog comes in. Dog joins Cat under the blanket and listens to Cat's worries. Dog's flashlight illuminates the darkness and brings laughter. The two friends build a blanket fort where they can make shadow puppets. Dog makes sandwiches so that they can share a picnic meal. With Dog's help, Cat discovers ways to cope until the sadness starts to lift. Ruth Ohi's first wordless picture book is a quiet, heartfelt story about the difference a kind friend can make on a gray day.

My Name Is Seepeetza

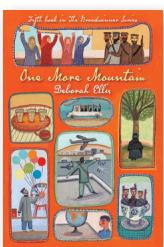

30th Anniversary Edition

by Shirley Sterling

Seepeetza loves living on Joyaska Ranch with her family. But when she is six years old, she is driven to the town of Kalamak, British Columbia. Seepeetza will spend the next several years at an Indian residential school. The nuns call her Martha and cut her hair. Worst of all, she is forbidden to "talk Indian," even with her sisters and cousins. Based on her own experiences, this powerful novel by Nlaka'pamux author Shirley Sterling is a moving account of one of the most blatant expressions of racism in the history of Canada. Akpa's Journey

by Mia Pelletier, illustrated by Kagan McLeod

After thick-billed murre Akpa emerges from his egg, high on an Arctic cliff, he soon learns that he must embark on a long migration before he is even able to fly. Flinging himself into the icy water with his father to guide him, Akpa must swim 1,000 kilometres of his journey south before he is able to finally fly the final leg of his journey. Adult male murres are also unable to fly during this time of the year, due to their changing feathers, so father and son must navigate south on the choppy ocean waves, meeting new and unfamiliar creatures along the way.

The Ugly Place

by Laura Deal, illustrated by Emma Pedersen

A child makes their way along the Arctic shoreline on a dark day. Everything around them seems as ugly as their mood, from the weather to the fish and mud. This is the place they come to whenever they feel ugly. But as the child closes their eyes and listens, the sound of the waves reminds them to breathe. What they once saw as an ugly landscape is now wonderful and vibrant, and alive with music and beauty. Building on concepts of social-emotional awareness, this book helps young readers see that they have the ability to control their own emotions.

To My Panik

To My Daughter

by Nadia Sammurtok, illustrated by Pelin Turgut

"Panik, do you know how much I love you? When I look at the horizon, past the vast tundra, I see no end. That is how much I love you." In this lovingly told book, a mother recounts for her daughter all the things she loves about her, connecting each attribute to an element of the Arctic landscape or Inuit traditional life. As her daughter's eyes glisten like the fire of a seal oil lamp, and her courage shines bright like buds of purple saxifrage fighting through a thick blanket of snow, the mother weaves a beautiful narrative of connection and love that will warm the hearts of all readers.

Can You Believe It?

How to Spot Fake News and Find the Facts

by Joyce Grant, illustrated by Kathleen Marcotte

Everything kids need to know to tell facts from "fake news" on the internet. Here's a comprehensive guide to how real journalism is made, what "fake news" is, and, most importantly, how to spot the difference. It provides practical advice, thought-provoking examples, and loads of explanations, definitions, and useful context. It encourages young people to approach what they find online with skepticism and helps them hone their critical-thinking skills to make good choices about what to believe and share. It's a must-read book on a topic that couldn't be more important in today's online world.

Only the Trees Know

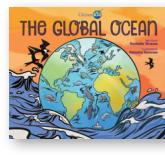

by Jane Whittingham, illustrated by Cinyee Chiu

A little rabbit, who doesn't like waiting, longs for spring.

Little Rabbit is hungry, bored and very tired of winter. "When will it be spring?" he asks his parents. When they aren't sure, he turns to his wise grandmother. "Only the trees know" she says. "Ask them, and they will tell you." So Little Rabbit does. But the trees don't answer him. He tries shouting, jumping, listening hard. Still nothing. Then, just when he's about to give up, he notices something different in the forest, something that's right underneath his nose...

The Global Ocean

by Rochelle Strauss, illustrated by Natasha Donovan

The global ocean is in trouble—and kids can help!

Though we think of Earth's five oceans as separate and distinct, they are actually a linked system of circulating water that is one single ocean—the global ocean. This comprehensive overview explores the global ocean's enormous influence on the planet, as well as humans' often-detrimental influence on the ocean. But it also highlights many inspiring initiatives underway to restore and heal Earth's most important feature, making its message of urgency as hopeful as it is accurate.

de Catherine Bourgault

Deux jumelés. Deux familles. Deux univers. D'un côté, il y a Lou. Elle habite avec sa mère, sa sœur et son chien, mais il y a un bon moment déjà que son beau-père s'est joint à la maisonnée. Et, bientôt, ses fils viendront s'y entasser aussi. Ça promet ! De l'autre, il y a Tessa, qui supporte difficilement les absences répétées de ses parents, souvent en voyage. Heureusement que la jeune fille peut compter sur la compagnie de Gabriel, son grand frère protecteur. À l'école, Tessa reste pourtant farouchement solitaire, son anxiété la privant de toute activité sociale.

Ces grands procès qui ont changé le monde

by Francesca Trap

Comment concevoir les règles les plus justes et les plus universelles, afin de permettre à tous de mieux vivre ? Des premiers mythes de l'humanité jusqu'à l'histoire contemporaine, cet album documentaire raconte et illustre 24 grands procès, répartis sur tous les continents, qui ont, chacun à leur façon, fait avancer la société.

How can we design the fairest and most universal rules, so everyone can live better? From the first myths of humanity to contemporary history, this documentary album uses texts and illustrations to present 24 major trials which have, in their own way, helped society move forward.

L'univers bleu d'Anouka

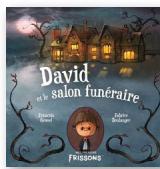

by Vida Simon

Anouka is a little girl who collects blue things. Alternating between realism and dreamlike passages and illustrations, Anouka's blue things offer a reflection on the nature of art and what it means to be an artist.

Anouka est une petite fille qui collectionne les choses bleues. Sa collection a commencé par quelques petits objets, puis elle a rempli toutes les pièces de la maison. Une lampe bleue, du sel bleu, un papillon bleu, des ombres bleues – Anouka se rend compte que sa collection pourrait s'agrandir à l'infini : il y aura toujours plus de choses bleues à trouver.

David et le salon funéraire

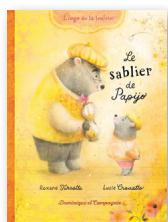

by François Gravel, illustrated by Fabrice Boulanger

David adore les cimetières et les histoires d'horreur, mais le salon funéraire lui fait peur. La nuit, il imagine sa grand-maman, couchée dans son cercueil, les yeux grands ouverts. Il craint que ce rêve se transforme en cauchemar – pour vrai !

Cemeteries do not scare David; there's one right next to his school yard. But he IS scared of going to the funeral parlour and seeing his grandmother in her casket. He learns, however, that it can be nice to say good-bye and thank her for being his grandmother. A new series for children that are scared of being scared.

Le sablier de Papijo

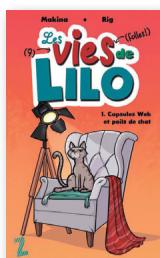

by Roxanne Turcotte, illustrated by Lucie Crovatto

Charlie appelle son grand-père Papijo. Papijo possède un drôle d'objet. Un sablier. Quand il le retourne, les grains de sable glissent lentement dans la bulle de verre. Cela me rappelle de prendre le temps de faire les choses, dit-il à Charlie. Chez Papijo, les journées s'écoulent simplement, doucement, un grain de temps à la fois.

A glorious picture book with breathtaking illustrations. A sweet and comforting story about how you can create magical moments in your day-to-day life. A reflection on time passing by and on a relationship with a grandparent that shapes who we become.

Digestion

by QA international

The human body includes all the organs that make you a living being. Each element plays a specific role, essential to the proper functioning of your body. Digestion is the journey of food through your digestive system. When you eat, this system goes to work. It decomposes food and absorbs all its nutrients in order for you to grow, move, think... But why do you have to eat vegetables? And why, sometimes, does your stomach hurt?

Fired Up about Consent

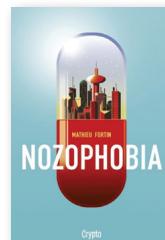

by Sarah Ratchford

According to the WHO, one in three women will be sexually or physically assaulted in her lifetime. This is rape culture, and young adults are living through it here and now. Fired Up about Consent is a practical, survivor-informed primer for young people who want to learn how to build joyful, mutually satisfying sex lives and relationships. In these pages, Ratchford defines rape and sexual assault, busts the myths behind outdated advice, and provides sex-positive scripts on how to ask for and offer a clear, enthusiastic, and freely given "Yes!"

Cancer ascendant autruche

de Julie Champagne

Lorsque Sam apprend que sa mère est atteinte d'un cancer, elle a l'impression que son univers s'écroule. Plutôt que de se laisser paralyser par le chagrin, la très cartésienne adolescente décide de plonger dans l'action et de faire tout ce qu'elle peut pour la sauver. Dans cette quête éperdue, chaque geste compte, pourvu qu'il permette à Sam de ne pas regarder en face la cruelle réalité: sa mère est malade et ses chances de survie diminuent un peu plus chaque jour. Un roman drôle et touchant, qui nous entraîne en montagnes russes à travers toute la gamme des émotions.
